Dear Potential Exhibitor:

The Pacific Section–American Association of Petroleum Geologists will hold a convention in Bakersfield, California, from April 22–April 25, 2018. This convention will provide petroleum and geoscience professionals, students, and educators with opportunities to attend oral presentations, exhibits, posters, continuing education short courses, field trips, and symposia. Many presentations and posters will focus on topics specific to the western North American petroleum industry as well as a range of topics related to this year’s convention theme: Enhancing Geologic Fundamentals: Fueling Your Passion. We anticipate 400-600 registrants and exhibitors.

We are pleased to announce the availability of exhibitor booth space for the 2018 convention at the Bakersfield Convention Center. The meeting will bring together geoscientists from across the western states and beyond and will provide an exciting opportunity to exchange ideas on a broad range of geoscience topics. A robust technical program, blended with the networking, marketing, and socializing opportunities provided by the exhibition will make this a conference not to miss. An Icebreaker Reception is scheduled in the Exhibition Area from 6-8 PM on Sunday, April 22.
